RIVER ICE IS ON THE MOVE AND TOWING WILL START THIS WEEK

First Tow Out of New York Left Saturday for Newburgh—Towing Between Kingston and New York Will Start This Week—Daily Steamer Service.

The Cornell Steamboat Company started the first tow of the season out of New York Saturday night for Newburgh. If conditions continue favorable towing between Kingston and New York will be resumed early this week.

The ice in the Hudson river off Kingston Point is now on the move, and the heavy wind of today was expected to aid materially in helping break up the ice fields.

The steamer Poughkeepsie, of the Central Hudson Line, left here for New York at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The Poughkeepsie now has an open channel through the ice fields between Kingston and Poughkeepsie and is encountering no trouble in making trips. The steamer Newburgh leaves New York this afternoon at 4 o'clock for Kingston, this being the beginning of the company's daily service.

SOLOMON RODNEY CHOSEN SPEAKER

By Local High School Faculty To Represent School in Hamilton Contest—Four Contestants.

This morning at the high school tryouts were held to determine who will represent Kingston High School in an interscholastic prize speaking contest to be held here soon under direction of Hamilton College. The contest will be for Kingston and the schools in the surrounding district, each school having one representative.

Solomon Rodney emerged the winner in the contest this morning, and he will represent the local school in the coming contest with representatives from other schools. There were four speakers, Solomon Rodney, Farquhar Corcoran, George Hamm and Westbrook Stolle. Each presented an excerpt from articles on interesting subjects. The winner was determined by a vote of the faculty. Each teacher was given a slip with the names of the four contestants on it. After the speeches were given, each teacher voted for first, second, third and fourth choice. The speaker having the smallest total was acknowledged the winner.

It was a close contest between Corcoran and the winner, but Rodney showed up better in his interpretation, emphasizing his points in such a way that convinced the majority of the judges that he was the winner. Stolle spoke in a direct, clear way, but his emphasis of the important points was less effective than that of Corcoran and Rodney. Hamm had a good, clear delivery, but he too fell down on emphasis.

The students are now anxiously awaiting the coming contest, the date of which will be announced later.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Syracuse, N. Y., March 26.—Arrested on a charge of criminally receiving stolen property, Attorney Hubert L. Gilman, one of the best known lawyers in northern New York, was arraigned before City Judge Wilson at Fulton at 1 o'clock this morning. The arrest results from the probe of the statewide theft of automobiles, scores of which have been disposed of in Fulton and vicinity.

Four men are now being held at Syracuse police headquarters, while another is out on bail of $2,500. The four held are Carl Lehman, Charles Coleman and Harold James of Fulton and McAllister. The man released on bail is Peter Massaro, president of Massaro Garage, Inc., Fulton.

TAXPAYERS SHOULD PAY INCOME TAXES EARLY

Although April 15 is the last day on which to pay state income taxes, the number of taxpayers who seek to pay early increases each year and the present week probably will see many of them at the court house where one of the auditors of the state tax commission is stationed to help people with their returns. Sometimes the press of business in certain sections of the state becomes so great that it is impossible to keep the income tax expert continuously in one place, so that those who want to be sure of having his assistance should go to the court house as early as possible.

THREE DEAD IN NEW YORK FIRE

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, March 26.—Three persons are known to be dead, one and possibly two are dying and one other is missing, as the result of a fire which swept through the two upper floors of the fashionable apartment house at 322-324 West Fifty-seventh street, early today. All the three known dead were women, the third victim being Emily Lee, 55.

This apartment house is close to that occupied by Miss Dorothy Keenan King, beautiful model who was recently murdered and whose death has not yet been cleared up, and nearly opposite the Y. M. C. A. branch.

One of the dead was identified as Miss Jessie Fries, companion of the wife of Joseph M. Callahan, who owned the building.

Another was Mrs. Margaret Lee, 65.

Damage is estimated at $50,000.

New York, March 26.—The identity of the man who killed beautiful Dorothy Keenan King while attempting to obtain letters from her for blackmail purposes, was said today to be known to the police. This man, who was head of the blackmail plot of which John Kearsley Mitchell, Philadelphia millionaire and society man was to have been the victim, is reported to be hiding in another town, but is under surveillance.

The police are now convinced that blackmailers chloroformed the girl to get her letters while unconscious and in their haste and excitement, gave her an overdose, killing her.

Washington, March 26.—The government's investigation of high sugar prices, ordered by President Harding, was speeded up today when the department of justice instructed United States District Attorney Hayward at New York, to gather evidence against alleged sugar speculators for presentation to federal grand juries.

THIS WEEK IN THE LEGISLATURE

Two Democrats Hinder Passage of Mullin-Gage Repeat in Senate—Two More Smith Measures To Be Killed.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, March 26.—This week is expected to bring forth another fight in the upper house of the legislature on the repeal of the Mullin-Gage state prohibition enforcement law.

Whether the Democrats will be able to push through the Dunnigan repealer depends largely upon the votes of Senators Love and Allen, Manhattan Democrats. Although the bill was advanced to the order of final passage with the aid of a couple of Republican votes, it is reported the Republicans have plainly told Senator Walker, the Democratic leader, that they will not vote for the measure when it comes up for final action unless everyone of the 26 Democratic Senators are recorded in favor of it. In other words, the Republicans will not take the responsibility of passing the bill.

While some of the Democratic Senators feel certain that Senators Allen and Love will have "changed their minds" when the repealer comes up for passage, there are others at the Capitol who feel sure that the measure will be defeated. Even if it does pass the upper house, Speaker Machold, Republican leader in the assembly, says that all repeal bills are dead so far as the lower house is concerned. This is taken to mean that if the repealer ever reaches the assembly it will be snuffed to death in committee.

At least two more of Governor Smith's measures are expected to be killed in the assembly this week—bills repealing the motion picture censorship law and the Lusk anti-sedition laws. There will be a conference of the Republican assemblymen tomorrow afternoon, when it is understood, these measures will come up for discussion.

The only remaining constitutional amendment of the three proposed by the governor to reorganize the state government, which has not been killed by the assembly—that providing for a consolidation of the state departments and a short ballot—was to have come up for debate tonight. In view of the conference between the governor and a committee of Republican assemblymen, which probably will take place Wednesday, the debate will be put over.

Assemblyman Cuvillier, New York Democrat, has served notice on the assembly that tonight he will move to have the judiciary committee discharged from further consideration of his measure to have the state annul its ratification of the Eighteenth amendment. This will mean another wet and dry fight in the lower house. There is every reason to believe the assembly will vote to uphold the committee on not reporting the bill.

MME. BERNHARDT AT DEATH'S DOOR

Last Sacrament Administered—Her Indomitable Spirit Shows Itself In Determination To Live.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Paris, March 26.—Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, world renowned actress, fought bravely for life today, but against terrible odds. Her illness is now diagnosed as uraemic poisoning complicated by heart weakness.

The last sacrament was administered to Mme. Bernhardt at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, after the attending physicians had given up hope that she could live through the day.

Only the indomitable will of the famous actress has kept the slender thread of life from snapping. After a small cup of weak broth had been fed to her, she brightened and remarked upon the lovely weather. It was a warm spring day and bright sunshine came flooding through the window.

"I still live to continue my work," said Mme. Bernhardt, but in a voice so pitifully weak that it could hardly be heard.

From five to seven specialists have been in attendance off and on, holding frequent consultations. They are amazed at the marvelous vitality of the patient who is 73 years old.

Dr. Prevost, chief of the specialists, refused to hold out any hope that Mme. Bernhardt could recover sufficiently to resume her work in the films, although he said that she might linger for a while.

A pathetic scene in the sick chamber was described today by Georges Michel, an old friend of the actress. He visited Mme. Bernhardt on Sunday. As he entered the chamber, Mme. Norman, who is supervising the nurses, warned him:

"Do not talk to her too much. She is more tired than she will admit. Anyway, she does not hear very well now."

Mme. Bernhardt, who overheard, broke in weakly:

"Yes I have got a ringing in my ears all the time like in—what play was that where I had such a frightful and disagreeable ringing in my ears? I cannot remember."

Mme. Bernhardt was silent a moment then continued: "Have the moving picture people come yet. I had moving picture making atrocious. It gets so tiresome with the crank constantly turning and myself registering scowls without saying anything."

"The crank registers everything but the most beautiful of all—the spoken word."

"My dear friend, then why do you do it?" asked Michel.

"Really, I don't do it; the others turn the crank, you know," replied Sarah. "And then they turn the picture over again. It is so tiresome. It is so tiresome. They have offered me 10,000 francs daily and besides I can almost go to America without leaving Paris; that is, my pictures will go there. I would like to know what they would offer me in America if I would go there."

Lannone was indicted by the last grand jury and will plead later. He was represented by William N. Fessenden.

Succeeds E. C. Yellowley and Will be Helped by Him For Next Few Months—Salary is $5,000 Annually—"One of Best Men in Country to Tackle N. Y. Liquor Situation," Says Haynes.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, March 26.—Palmer Canfield, Jr., at present a legal adviser in the New York prohibition office, today was named by Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair as federal prohibition director for New York state.

Canfield succeeds E. C. Yellowley, who was assigned temporarily to the New York station after Ralph Day resigned on November 1, 1922.

Canfield will assume office on April 1, at a salary of $5,000 a year. "Canfield is one of the best men in the country to tackle the New York liquor situation," says Haynes. "Under the tutelage of Yellowley, he has been thoroughly schooled in the enforcement of prohibition as it peculiarly affects New York."

Canfield will be aided by Yellowley during the next few months. Haynes said, until details of enforcement during Yellowley's acting directorship have been cleared.

Former Mayor Canfield returned Sunday from Washington. Mr. Canfield will retain his present position as chief of the legal department. His office will be in the Albemarle building at Madison Square, New York city. The entire fifteenth floor of the building is occupied by the several hundred employees. It is also the headquarters of the prohibition agents for the New York city division. The department also has branch offices in Buffalo, Syracuse, Albany, Malone and Brooklyn.

Mr. Canfield will succeed E. C. Yellowley, who has been acting as director since November last. Mr. Yellowley is chief of the general agents of the United States and he will return to that position. Mr. Yellowley succeeded Ralph A. Day, who resigned in October last after having served a year.

As director, Mr. Canfield will pass upon all basic permits and withdrawal permits of whiskey and distilled spirits and denatured alcohol and sacramental wines. There are about 6,000 retail druggists and 15,000 physicians having basic permits in this state and also a large number of wholesale druggists, manufacturers, denatured and industrial alcohol and other concerns, bonded wineries and branch distilleries. After a permittee receives a basic permit every withdrawal or transfer must be authorized under proper permits issued by the director.

While Mr. Canfield will be located in New York city the work will necessarily make weekly trips to Washington and occasional trips up state. He has served as head of the legal department since last May and prior to that was Special Assistant United States Attorney in charge of prohibition cases and proceedings in the Southern District of New York.

Drying Flowers.

This formula for drying flowers in their natural form and pose is known as the English method. Equal quantities of plaster paris and lime are thoroughly mixed together, and sifted about the flowers until they are completely imbedded in their natural form; and then the preparation is gradually heated to 100 degrees Fahrenheit. The flowers are soon dried in this way. After removing the flowers, they should be carefully dusted off. If they are found too brittle for this they should be laid aside for an hour or so to absorb moisture from the atmosphere. Then to completely remove all appearances of hardness the flowers should be varnished with five ounces of dammar to 16 ounces of turpentine. Before varnishing, the flowers can be dyed any desired color. However, whether dyed or not, the flowers will be made more durable by a coat or two of the varnish. The lime called for should be powdered and unslaked.

Amber In United States.

The world's greatest source of amber is the shores of the Baltic sea. Amber is the fossilized resin of several species of pine trees. In small quantities it has been found in various parts of the globe, including the United States, but up to within a comparatively recent period no American deposit of amber extensive enough to be of commercial value has been discovered. Not so long ago, however, amber was found at Cape Sable, on the Magdalen river, in Maryland, and this arouses the hope that it may yet be discovered in paying quantities in this country. The deposit at Cape Sable has been known since 1821, but only lately has a careful investigation of it been made. The fossil tree trunks in which bits of amber are embedded are not, like those of the Baltic region, plain, but are believed by the discoverer to be specimens of the sequoia.—Washington Star.

W. T. GOLDSMITH IS FOUND DEAD

Had Charge of Stake Boat No. 3 of Cornell Line—Nightwatchman Smith Found Him Dead in His Chair in Boat's Cabin Early Sunday Evening.

William T. Goldsmith, employed by the Cornell Steamboat Company for many years, was found dead sitting in his chair in the cabin of Stake Boat No. 3, moored in the Rondout creek, near the towing office. The discovery of the body was made by Nightwatchman David Smith. Police headquarters were notified and in the absence of Coroner W. N. Conner permission to remove the body was given by District Attorney Traver, when an examination of the body by a physician showed that death was due to heart failure.

The dead man for many years was employed as a pilot on the tugs of the Cornell Line, but of late years, owing to his advanced age, he was said to be about 77 years old he had charge of the stake boat. This boat is stationed in New York harbor, but during the winter months when navigation is closed the boat is brought here and berthed in the creek.

Mr. Goldsmith formerly resided at Haverstraw, but for several years past has made his home on the stake boat. At the towing office here it was said that it was not thought he had any near relatives living.

The body was turned over to undertaker Leo V. Grogan and removed to his undertaking parlors.

CATHOLIC CHARITY WORK PLANNED

This afternoon at St. Joseph's Rectory, a meeting was held by priests representing every parish in Ulster county, to put into working order the plans laid down by the officials of the Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of New York. The Very Rev. Joseph G. Cushman, Dean of Ulster county, called the meeting, and the priests assembled were given details of the working plans of the appeal for this year by the Rev. Edward A. Hayes of New York city, the director of finance for the Catholic Charities.

The point stressed at the meeting was that if the work which was made possible by the appeals of the last three years was to go on and bear fruit, the appeal must be continued and Catholic Charities made a permanent organization. The work already begun, great as it is, in establishing charity centers in every part of the diocese, for aid in distress, preventive care and rescue of young people, the upbuilding and increased efficiency of Catholic institutions, cannot go on without continued support. A new phase of endeavor is to be launched after this campaign which will supplement the work of the parochial schools by organizing Catholic high schools for the higher education of children. It is the wish and plea of the archbishop that while the old works of charity of the past three years shall be continued with even greater efficiency, this new era in Catholic education may be made possible in the Archdiocese of New York.

Alexander Kerensky

Alexander Kerensky, former Russian Premier, is one of the most prominent of the 22 leaders of the Socialist-Revolutionist Party who are expected to surrender to the Soviet Government in Russia as hostages for those members of their party who were imprisoned after trials in Moscow last summer. The convicted men are said to have been broken in health by their confinement and the brutal treatment accorded them. To save their lives Kerensky and his associates plan to take their places in prison. Kerensky is suffering from tuberculosis, and imprisonment for even so short a time would kill him.

LEAGUE PRICES FOR APRIL MILK

The board of directors of the Dairyman's League Cooperative Association announced their recommendation of prices for April milk sold in fluid form as $2.50 per 100 pounds. Class 2 milk is set at $2.20 being sweet cream or milk manufactured into ice cream and soft cheeses.

With the exception of Class 2, these prices are practically the same as are being received for March milk. The reduction in class 2, however, will be somewhat offset by the fact that beginning with April the dealers will pay the farmers higher prices for skim milk, varying with the use that is made of it. Up to the present time the farmers have been unable to realize very much for their skim milk but there is an increasing demand for it as a by-product and the pooling farmers are now in position to ask the dealers for fair returns on it.

In announcing the prices for April the board of directors of the association declared their belief that the milk market situation for the coming year looks very encouraging. Stock of manufactured products are low and there is an increasing demand that will probably continue.

Why Chinese Noses Are Flat.

Among the many millions of China there is a practice which seems to have a curious result. The mother carries her infant in a kind of bag or carrier on her back, and not, as in other countries where the dorsal carriage is affected, with face turned outwards, but as probably we ought to expect in China, where everything seems to go and come by rule of contraries, with the face turned inward. The result of that is that the baby's nose is of necessity pressed against its mother's back, whence, no doubt, has been evolved in the course of ages the peculiarly flattened or hunted nose characteristic of the Chinaman.

Meaning of Picnic.

Most people know what it is to enjoy a picnic; not all can tell how the name of this form of entertainment originated. The explanation according to one derivation, is simple. When a picnic was being arranged it was the custom for those who were to be present to promise to supply food and drink. A list of the things necessary was drawn up and passed round, each person picking out the articles he or she would supply. The name of the article was "nicked" on the list—that is to say, a mark was placed against it. The open-air entertainment thus came to be known as "Pick and nick." The custom is said to date from 1802.

First Paper Makers.

Wasp construct their paper nests from wood pulp; and it is quite likely that ages ago, when the human race was in a far more primitive state than it is at present, it gained its idea in paper manufacture from the social wasps, which had the same habits then as now, says the American Forestry Magazine. Most of these social wasps obtain the material from which they make their paper from the looser parts of the surface of old, unpainted fence boards, rails, house shingles and so on, and it is formed into the necessary pulp by being chewed up with the saliva as a mixer.

The Telephone Talks.

Monologue in the Northwestern Bell: "I am a telephone. While I am not broke, I am in the hands of a receiver. I have a mouthpiece, but, unlike a woman, I never use it. Fellows use me to make dates with girls and girls use me to break said dates. Husbands call up their wives over me and wives call down their husbands. I never get to call anywhere, but sometimes the company comes and takes me out. I am the bell of the town, and while I do not get jewelry, I often get rings."—Boston Evening Transcript.

Will She Rule Her Husband?

St. Kevin's cross, in Glendalough county, Ireland, on the spot where St. Kevin was buried, is probably the most ancient cross in Ireland. Around it is woven a legend to the effect that the woman who can make her arms meet round the cross would rule her husband. Superstitions to a remarkable degree, many Irish collectors have an abiding faith in this old legend, and before entering upon matrimony visit the cross to learn what the fates have in store for them.

WHAT FRIENDS OF ZONING SAY

Small Invasion of District by Undesirable Buildings Creates Panic Among Residents Who See Values of Their Properties Shrinking.

On Friday, March 30, the Chamber of Commerce will hold an open meeting at the Eagle Hotel at 8:30 p. m., at which time Campbell Scott, president of the Technical Advisory Corporation of New York, will speak on the topic of "City Planning and Zoning for Kingston." The Technical Advisory Corporation is one of the foremost companies in the country doing city planning work.

This will be an open meeting and all property owners and those interested in the best growth and development of Kingston regardless of membership in the Chamber are cordially invited to be present. Dinner will be served at $1 per plate.

The committee of arrangements wish so far as possible to know in advance how many reservations to make. Call the Chamber office and reserve seats. Tickets will be on sale at the hotel on the evening of the meeting.

The following are some extracts from a Zoning Primer issued by the advisory committee on zoning by Secretary Hoover, Department of Commerce:

"Zoning is the application of common sense and fairness to the public regulations governing the use of private real estate. It is a painstaking, honest effort to provide each district or neighborhood, as nearly as practical, with just such protection and just such liberty as are sensible in that particular district. It avoids the error of trying to apply exactly the same building regulations to every part of the city or town regardless of whether it is a suburban residence section, or a factory district, or a business and financial center. It fosters civic spirit by creating confidence and justice and stability of the protection afforded."

"Zoning gives everyone who lives or does business in a community a chance for the reasonable enjoyment of his rights. At the same time it protects him from the unreasonable injury by neighbors who would seek private gain at his expense."

"Live and let live," is a better motto for the modern city than the savage one on "Dog eat dog."

Other advocates of zoning say: By zoning, millions of waste from the scrapping of buildings in blighted districts may be eliminated. A blighted district is a district originally developed for residence or industry. In the future of which people have lost confidence.

The causes of such blight are manifold. The most familiar cause is that of a residential district into which there have begun to creep various uses threatening rapid destruction of its value for residences. Such new uses as sporting stores, or factories, are junk yards. It is not that a few such inappropriate uses really spoil the district, but that people having lost confidence start a panic like the run on the bank. When such uses creep into these districts property owners hurry to unload their property at a sacrifice for any kind of use no matter how objectionable to their neighbors, and the blight is on.

Proper zoning cuts these losses at their source, just as proper building regulations and fire protection cut fire losses at their source. If zoning can reduce the cost of living, why not have it?

Sorcerer's College.

In New Guinea there is a "College of Sorcery" where a student has to go through a two years' course before he comes up for his final examination. Most of the sorcerers acquire an extraordinary power over snakes. They can do even more than handle the snakes with the impunity of an Indian snake charmer. They train their writhing pets to hate and fear certain people, and then put the snakes in place where it is certain the victim will be bitten.

16,500,000 Books Printed.

Basing conclusions on what is considered reliable data, an English librarian estimates that since the invention of printing in Europe in the Fifteenth century the output of the world's book presses has amounted to about 16,500,000 works, of which some 4,400,000 have been printed since 1900. The librarian believes that perhaps 20,000 of all the books printed still possess value.

Evil of Idleness.

Idleness is the gate of all harm. An idle man is like a house that hath no walls; the devils may enter on every side.—Chaucer.

COLD VICTUALS

By CLARISSA MACKIE

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

HANNAH BLAKE'S severe countenance was poked around the corner of the kitchen door. It was drawn into bitter disapproval.

"Miss Seiden, there's another one of them critters out yonder."

Jane Seiden looked up from the book she was reading; her very blue eyes met the agate-gray ones of her maid. "What are you talking about, Hannah?"

"He's sitting on the barn door fast asleep."

"Is it a cat?" inquired Jane, who loved cats and kittens and dogs.

"It's a man. Yes, Miss Seiden, I knew the minute you fed that book agent last week that a whole lot of tramps would come tramping around. He's there," she ended tragically.

Jane sighed. "Did you tell him to go away?" she asked hopefully.

Hannah sniffed. "Not a bit of it. How could I know that you didn't want me to take him out a dish of cold baked beans and a slice of prune pie that I baked for myself, nobody here liking it except me."

"Do as you think best, Hannah. Does he seem to be very poor or is he just a common lazy tramp?" Jane asked in a troubled tone.

"I believe he's uncommonly lazy, but I'm taking him the beans and the pie and a cup of coffee."

Jane arose and laid aside her book. "I will take the food to him, Hannah. You have so much to do. It is very kind of you to get it ready for him."

"Folks have got to eat—tramps or what-not," she declared as she gave a flat basket into the hands of her employer. She watched Jane as the slender figure stepped gracefully down the brick path to the gate of the barnyard, saw her cross the yard and enter the great barn, which had two immense doors, front and back. The tramp was sitting in the back doorway, that overlooked a vast field of weeds and flowers. In the distance was the dim blur of hills.

Jane knew that Hannah's keen ears would be listening for any outcry, so she approached the stranger with the confidence that was born of her native courage and her own pride and glory in labor.

"Did you wish to see any one?" she asked quietly.

The man turned his head and immediately got upon his feet, removing his dusty felt hat.

"Thank you, I merely sat down to rest awhile. I was very tired, and the barn looked cool and the view pleasant." He spoke respectfully and his accent was that of a cultivated man.

Jane hesitated. "My housekeeper came out and saw you asleep; she is very hospitable, and she thought you might be hot and thirsty, so she has sent you out some supper." She placed the basket beside him.

He flushed under the tan, and then a wonderful smile lightened his weary face. "Your housekeeper is a woman in a multitude. Will you tell her that a very hungry man thanks her sincerely. I wonder if there is anything I can do in return? Is there wood to chop, or anything like that?"

"No, thank you," laughed Jane, relieved that the wanderer was of such an amiable type. "You are enjoying the beautiful view of the hills?"

"Yes. My home is there," he said simply.

"And you are going back again. They will be glad to see you, and you will be happy to get there. Home means so much!"

He looked at her with a strangely thoughtful air. "Yes, my home is there and I should be glad to get back if it were not so lonely."

"I am very sorry," said Jane gently, as she left him to enjoy Hannah's delicious food.

"Well, did he eat the cold victuals?" demanded Hannah as Jane returned to the house.

"I believe he is going to," answered Jane in an absent voice. Later she saw him crossing the field toward the woods that bordered the other side. He could reach the road to the mountains there. "Perhaps some motor car will pick him up," she thought.

Sunday morning Hannah came home from church with a stricken look on her face. Jane, who was suffering from a headache looked her concern.

"What is the matter?"

"Matter enough, ma'am. Do you remember the cold victuals man that you fed in the barn?"

"Yes, what of him?"

"He was at church this morning. Dixie Carter, who works up at the big house—Hillcrest—says he's Mr. Hill, that millionaire, and she says he wanders all over—loves to tramp the country over—and good land, Miss Jane, here he comes now! See the handsome automobile out there."

An hour later Hannah peered from a window and saw him drive away. She saw his last backward look at the little house.

"He will come again and again, and then there'll be wedding bells for Miss Jane, all because of me and the cold victuals!"

And that was the way it happened, after all.

What a Shame!

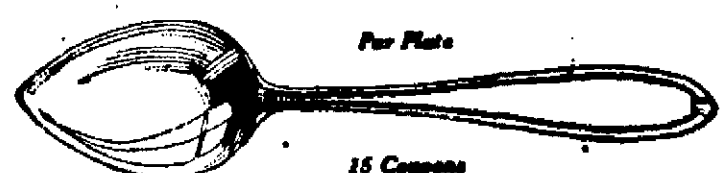

"Dubon doesn't like his new car." "Is that so? What's the matter with it?"

"He has to throw it in low gear before he can plow through the pedestrians."

Little girl came home from Sunday school and said to her mother, "I learned today how woman was made."

"Fine," said her mother, "how?" The child replied, "God made man first, then took his backbone and brains out and made a woman."

Greek Governor Thanks America For Aid Given To Isle of Chios By The American Red Cross

Among the first callers on Colonel William H. Haskell, American Red Cross Commissioner to Greece, when Colonel Haskell took up his duties in Athens, was His Excellency, Minos Petchakis, former Governor of the island of Chios and now Governor of Epirus.

"Chios presented," Governor Petchakis said, "a typical example of the absolute inability of our port towns to handle their refugee burdens unaided. A city whose normal population is 20,000 had its numbers increased suddenly to 48,000 through an influx of helpless and homeless people. It is a simple statement of fact that hundreds upon hundreds of these refugees would have died had it not been for the help extended by the Red Cross."

Under Colonel Haskell's direction a program of emergency relief similar to that at Chios is being administered throughout Greece from the disaster emergency funds of the American Red Cross. Food, medicine, blankets, clothing and tents are among the supplies furnished, aggregating already $2,600,000 in value.

Judge John Barton Payne, Chairman of the American Red Cross, laid down a policy, that the help shall be tendered in those centers where the refugee burden is greatest, and that only individuals unable to secure employment shall be helped.

Reports from the American personnel on the ground are unanimous on two points. Firstly, it is agreed that the emergency situation will have been met fully by the time the next harvest comes in, which for Greece means early summer. Secondly, there is a strong conviction, as evidenced by recommendations to Judge Payne, that the permanent problem is one of adjustment of the entire refugee situation, rather than an indefinite maintenance of charitable aid.

GREEN, GRAY, RED

Three Strong Colors Are in Limelight for Spring.

Printed Crepes Are Offered in Interesting Patterns—Attractive Rough-Surfaced Ratines.

When you buy that spring gown, remember three shades lead, green, gray and red, the latter being a glowing color of littersweet berries that has a scarlet brilliancy subdued by a yellow tint, notes a fashion writer in the Detroit News.

As for grays, never were they so alive, with the tints of dawn and sunset as this spring. All the cold of the winter skies has been forgotten, and we have the blush of June overlaying the ground shade, giving it life with color and shine without brilliancy. Greens range in the duller hues, but run from light to dark, as fancy favors, so there is really little limitation of choice, so long as the shopper remembers the three degrees—green, gray, red. This memorized, do whatever you like.

Fabric designs—well, there are printed crepes in three patterns, bokhara, named from the Bokhara rug, from which the design is copied; paisley and oriental. Fabrics themselves run the entire gamut of liveliness and oddity. For there is seersucker crepe, far removed indeed from the old-time stripes of crinkly cotton, but in pattern and shadings much resembling the bedspreads that our grandmothers wore in colonial days.

Then appear ratines, rough-surfaced and dotted with white till they look like a winter blizzard, and gingham ratine—an entirely new fabric, by the way—with a sheer gingham background through which is woven wide ratine stripes in plaid design. Reno crepe in cotton comes in all the brilliant colors, and rodier crepe still holds its place among the season's favorites.

Plain-colored materials in silk and wool and cotton are among the newer fabrics and come in brocade designs and rough-surfaced weaves.

As the season advances little tulle and less foulard will be worn. The old standbys are still in evidence in new colorings, and counters are full of knit silks, thistled and cantons.

There are the daintiest designs in delicate blendings on grounds of white and cream that resemble old Dresden china and conventional patterns of diamonds and squares in blue on grounds of brick red and dull tans, in silk crepe weaves that recall the days of Polly Varden.

And with all these lovely things to choose from the woman shopper after spring wardrobe is going to have a grand and glorious orgy of color and sheen and spending.

YOUTH AND CHARM COMBINED

Youthful simplicity is emphasized in this misses' frock of crepe. It is daintily piped in contrasting colored crepe.

THE NEW POWDER KERCHIEFS

Velvet Ribbon Puffs Favored Because They Will Not Scratch the Tender Skin.

The latest thing in powder puffs is the velvet ribbon powder kerchief. It is made of a square of velvet ribbon in the light shades. Or squares of velvet with ribbon edging may be used. It is said that the skin of the face is protected by the velvet kerchief, as it will not scratch the skin. The best known beauty specialists are reported to have taken up the idea of the velvet ribbon as a puff.

Seven-inch velvet ribbon or even narrower should be used for the puff. An edging of lace or some attractive narrow ribbon of satin or moire adds to the attractiveness of this novel handkerchief.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAR. 26, 1923.

Jackson Barnett, the richest Indian in Oklahoma, is making arrangements for the disposal of his fortune in a way to keep it out of the hands of "designing persons." Wonder if he includes in this objectionable class his expectant and waiting relatives?

An Oxford debater names among the sins of American newspapers the printing of pictures of "ministers of religion who had eloped with pew-openers." If he had said choir singers he would have been generally understood, but no few Americans will have to be told what a "pew-opener" is.

Nazimova is to go back to the spoken drama because she "misses the applause." One would think that she and all the movie stars who have known the speaking stage would also miss the inspiration from the readily sensed atmosphere of approval extending across the footlights from a visible audience.

Referring to a certain news item, the Springfield Republican remarks that "it intrigues the imagination, as the best-selling writers might have put it before the word, so used, lost its sudden and strange popularity." It is welcome news that "intrigue" in that sense was but a temporary literary eccentricity.

North Carolina is debating the question as to whether the constitutional provision that conviction on a criminal charge may not be made except by "a jury of good and lawful men in open court" excludes women from jury service on criminal cases, the clause dating from a period when women had not their present political rights.

Mrs. Nellie Burnett Miller has been appointed poet laureate of his state by Governor Sweet of Colorado. Will she be expected to write a poem of congratulation whenever there is an increase in the "royal family" residing in the Governor's mansion? Such seems to have been the chief service performed by poets laureate in Europe, where less is now heard of them than in former times.

Swedish six per cent bonds are quoted at over 103, and all the Swedish securities in our markets are rapidly being bought up by the Swedes themselves. At least one European government has returned to normalcy with a vengeance. Of course Sweden was neutral during the war, but her markets were disarranged, and the value of her national bonds fell off along with all others. The fact that they have gone back to over par shows what conservative management will do for Europe if honestly applied.

THE LONeliEST ISLAND.

It is always interesting as well as instructive to learn how people manage to make the best of unfavorable conditions. There is nothing more readable in Commander Wild's account of Sir Ernest Shackleton's last Antarctic expedition, in the Journal of the Royal Geographical Society, than the description of the island called Tristan d'Acunha in the middle of the South Atlantic, one of the most isolated of all the lonely inhabited spots of the world. When the Quist halted there for a few hours it was learned that a Japanese steamer, which touched there a month before, was the first vessel the 137 inhabitants had seen in a year and a half. Two missionaries, the Rev. and Mrs. Martin Rogers, had landed from the Japanese ship and already they had organized a Boy Scout troop and opened a school, the "boys and girls" attending it ranging in age "from about four to forty years."

According to Commander Wild, these isolated islanders are moral, peaceable and long-lived, with "no headman, no laws, no taxes, no jail and no police." They grow their single crop of potatoes, have cattle and poultry, have neither tobacco nor alcohol, and their 20 houses are made uninhabitable by rats and fleas. Necessity compels them to be self-reliant, for it is a land of individualism in its extreme. One can not fail to admire the devotion of Mr. and Mrs. Rogers, laboring in that lonely and scant vineyard for the good of 137 islands, yet one wonders if the remote islanders will not be less contented than they were as they learn what they have missed and what they lack. As knowledge invades the "bliss" of their ignorance, this simplest of the simple life may tend to lose such charm and satisfaction as it formerly yielded. But in any event the lonely islanders may be regarded as in a large measure safe from the unrest of civilization.

3. Does hog cholera get spread by birds?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. Is it possible for a grain of oats to degenerate enough through the winter to head out a bunch of cheat in the spring?

This question is based on an old mis-belief that the nature of a seed of any grain can change character, and germinate, when planted, into a different sort of plant. This belief comes from imperfect observation of certain weed-seeds that may be ripened and mixed with the wheat or oats. When this mixture is planted, wheat seeds will produce wheat; and the weed seed, a sort of bromine grass, often called darnel, will produce weeds. Out seed that seems to sprout into "cheat" or "chess" is simply seed in which some weed seed has mixed.

2. Should bird houses have a perch near the door?

No. Wild birds that nest in natural holes usually fly directly into the hole and drop down onto the nesting material at the bottom. They don't need a perch, and the latter only attracts the English sparrow, which does like to alight before entering its nest.

3. What do salmon eat?

According to Jordan and Evermann's American Food and Game Fishes, the Atlantic salmon feed, in salt or brackish water, on shrimps, young crabs, crustaceans, and their eggs. In the rivers, when going up to spawn, they are supposed to eat very little. The landlocked salmon has been known to pursue smelts. The Quinal salmon of the Pacific coast has been observed following schools of herring. The feeding habits of salmon in the ocean are not easy to observe.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS

"The Light in the Dark," starring Hope Hampton, showing at Keene's tonight and Tuesday is a story two thousands years long-told in a single floating hour by a star whose fame is founded on beauty, charm and talent, assisted by a cast that reveals Lon Chaney in a new crook role, and E. K. Lincoln in a character that gives the production no small part of its genuine heart appeal. The life-like beauty introduced the beautiful episode of the Holy Grail. Will Rogers in "Fruit of Faith" is the comedy attraction programmed tonight and Tuesday.

"Florence Vidor in 'Dusk to Dawn,' a drama of dreams, romance and thrilling adventure, is the attraction at the Auditorium tonight. Its story carries one from America to India and return in a series of exciting adventures. Harold Lloyd in 'Number Please' is the comedy feature. Tuesday Norma Talmadge in 'Romance and Ambella.'

One of the most beautiful studios ever constructed for a motion picture is seen in William de Mille's latest Paramount picture, "Crump," which comes to the Orpheum Theater today for a run of three days. This set consists of a two-story house and gardens, complete in every detail. To construct a scene in this way means the saving of much time and expense, which would be incurred if it were necessary to transport an entire production, film to proper locations. The picture itself is a most amusing comedy, with Theodore Roberts, May McAvoy and Conrad Nagel in featured roles.

J. F. MURPHY IN NEW ENTERPRISE

Successful Show Manager Here Puts On New Entertainment at Norfolk Outdoing Anything He Has Attempted.

The Billboard of March 17 has an extended write-up of a new undertaking of J. F. Murphy, who is a son of the late Dr. Robert Murphy and Mrs. Mary Murphy of East Chester street, and is a member of Kingston Lodge of Elks and Kingston Knights of Columbus. The Billboard says: Norfolk, Va., March 8.—Saturday, April 7, will mark the opening of the Indian Circus and Bazaar, backed by seven thousand Red Men of Norfolk. The location for the event will be at Granby and Ninth streets. This is the site owned by the city upon which the huge city auditorium will be erected this summer and has never before been used for show purposes.

This also marks the advent of J. F. Murphy's new idea in outdoor amusements, under whose company the circus, bazaar and merchants' industrial exposition has been promoted and produced. As a precedent in this field it is considered the most drastic step ever attempted on a large scale in the outdoor show world.

While the many details of promotions and general business policy are not given out for publication, it can be observed these are the strong features around which the organization came into existence: This offering will operate exclusively in a canvas amphitheater, 250x600 feet. Almost without exception every piece of paraphernalia and canvas, from the stakes up, will be new. Directly behind the huge electric arch front will be the merchants' industrial exposition auditorium (80x240 feet), cleverly and artistically arranged to care for one hundred booths for both local and national advertisers and exhibitors. Next will be the usual line of concessions on either side, owned and operated by the management. Through the center there will be distributed four new, modern riding devices, featuring the Caterpillar, which is due in Norfolk from the manufacturers April 1. Another outstanding feature pertaining to the concessions is that all are to be housed under one continuous top, with scenery and other decorations to harmonize. All this paraphernalia has been built to fit the new wagons, all of which are exactly alike in body and size.

The only attraction offered along the lines of the old J. F. Murphy shows will be the wild animal arena under the management of Captain Fred Delvey, veteran showman and builder. This will be operated as an educational feature only. Captain Delvey has built a front for his attraction the like of which probably has never been seen and is a creation of his own brain. Having been for years a great believer in free acts and clean, wholesome amusement, Mr. Murphy has gathered together one of the greatest collections of recognized artists in America. These acts will take place on a six-wagon stage, with accommodations for from five to ten thousand people. Directly to the right of this stage will be the band stand, where Frank Meeker's All-American Band will offer the musical program, assisted by a vocal soloist.

Among the many features contracted to date are The Mangan Troupe, eight acrobats, considered among the best in the business; Prince Nelson, famous high-wire artist; The Five Flying Moores, well-known park and fair flying trapeze free act; Five Terrible Terrors, comedy acrobats; Four Haas Brothers, four aerial bar performers; Frank Lemon and his Globe of Death, looping the loop on a motorcycle; The Parents, European gymnasts; Arthur Burton, Jerry Alton and several clowns with a number of other lesser acts. Four of the numbers take place from forty to eighty feet high, and the balance on the stage.

Mr. Murphy's executive and business staff, besides himself as general manager, includes Tom Terrill, director of advance; R. F. McDonlon, secretary and treasurer; Harry E. Bonnell, director of advance promotions and publicity; Dave Skilower, manager of concessions; Fred A. Danner and Ben F. Wolcott, special promoters, with two others to be selected; Fred De Ivey, general superintendent; Frank Meeker, musical director; James Mooney, trainmaster; R. A. Martin, chief electrician.

While April 7 marks the opening of the show, the official opening will take place Monday, April 16, at Portsmouth, Va., under the combined Pythian lodges of Tidewater, Virginia. Advance work for both weeks are going forward with a rush, and advertising matter is now going up. After the Portsmouth engagement the show will take the road for the regular summer season.

FARM TAXES DOUBLE IN EIGHT YEARS, SAYS LEE

Roads and Public Schools Cause the Increase.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Ithaca, March 26.—Taxes on farm lands in New York state have more than doubled in the eight years from 1914 to 1922. The tax question is regarded as one of the farmer's chief problems and is a major reason for curtailment of the farm income.

These reasons were given here today by Russ Lee, president of the New York State Bureau Federation, in explanation of the interest taken by the farm bureau in the problem. Officials are studying the tax system of the state with the aim of proposing some amelioration of present conditions.

"Our figures shows the tax rate on farm lands has increased from 53 cents to $1.12 an acre since 1914," Mr. Lee said.

Roads and public schools were important factors in causing the increase, Mr. Lee said, although all costs of government have increased.

PRESIDENT HAD A QUIET SUNDAY

Wakes Up On News After Three Weeks' Isolation—Announcement of Candidacy Meets Favorably.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
St. Augustine, Fla., March 26.—Political advisers of President Harding are greatly pleased by the action on the announcement of the Harding candidacy in 1924. It was learned here today.

Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, who made the historic announcement at Miami a week ago, had advised the president of the receipt of a "flood" of congratulatory messages from party leaders in all parts of the country. Some of the most prominent counselors in the party have wired that "the country is waiting for it," and that the announcement at this time would give much needed clarification to the political atmosphere.

This view is also taken by members of the president's immediate staff. Whatever else it has done, they said today, it has served to check, if not to stop altogether, much of the quiet "grooming" of various candidates that has been in progress ever since rumors became current that Mr. Harding would not be a candidate.

Attorney General Daugherty probably will come to St. Augustine tomorrow or Wednesday to spend the remainder of his convalescent period and incidentally to talk over with the president the effect of his political announcement at Miami.

Mr. Harding himself is giving little thought to anything but his vacation, although since his arrival in St. Augustine and over the week end he managed to get "caught up" on news and events that transpired during his three weeks isolation on his houseboat cruise. Newspapers were not a part of the pioneer's equipment and there were days at a stretch when the chief executive scarcely saw the headlines.

During a quiet Sunday the president did considerable reading.

Today, Mr. Harding planned to play thirty-six holes of golf, doubting his usual round.

MITCHELL'S WIFE STANDS BY HIM

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Palm Beach, Fla., March 26.—Declaring that she had received a long distance telephone call from her husband on Sunday that cheered her greatly, Mrs. J. K. Mitchell, accompanied by her young daughter and her father, E. T. Stotesbury, boarded a special train here early today destined for Philadelphia. Her stepmother, Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury, accompanied by Mrs. Alexander Williams Biddle, left for Washington a few hours before in a private car. "I am hurrying back to Philadelphia to join my husband just as soon as a train can take me there," Mrs. Mitchell told International News Service.

"You can make it as plain as you can that I am joining my husband just as soon as this steaming train can get me there. When a wife says that in the face of circumstances that have arisen in my life, in the past 24 hours, in addition to assurances by telegram and telephone messages, it should prove just how she believes in her husband."

Darwinism is the doctrine that later species or forms of animals and plants have been developed out of earlier ones by a process of natural selection, supplemented in some cases by sexual selection. The dimples in golf balls are made in order to make the ball fly straight. Practically nothing can fly well for any considerable distance without a tail. Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

BOSS ELEPHANT

"In my home country," said the elephant who had always gone by the name of Boss Elephant, "I was really a boss. That was how I got my name. Elephants used to work well in and about the lumber camps, and mills. They were taught quickly and they knew how to roll the logs and push them into position before the logs were to be sawed. But I was the boss. If they didn't do right I would push them into position and give them little spankings—just to show them that they weren't doing right."

"They were very good though, and I wasn't a hard boss. They liked me as a boss and found me kindly and willing to do my part, too."

"I didn't let it turn my head or my trunk just because I was a boss. No, indeed. I have no use for creatures who act cross and sassy and mean because they have a little authority or because they have the chance to boss."

"Boss Elephant was never like that. When the whistle used to blow for everyone to stop work we stopped work, too. Oh yes, we were ready to stop when it was time to do so. We did just as the others did."

"I was brought over by a master who had a hard time getting the elephants on the boat. He got me to lead the way and we walked onto the boat with the master begging us and talking to us so we'd do just right, as the ship master didn't like elephants."

"So our master wanted us to behave our best. And I was good. I listened to my master as he talked to me, and I did as he said. He was so patient and so kindly."

"Oh yes, my life has been far from dull. I am a good swimmer and many has been the river swim I have had."

"Many animals have had interesting experiences. One man who is devoted to animals has pet monkeys in his home. When he is away from home the monkeys do all sorts of things to the house just as naughty children will."

"They move everything about and take the things from one place and put them in another. Oh, they have the greatest scramble at times and are up to all sorts of mischief."

"This man has one pet monkey from British Guiana known as the Red Howler. He is very tame and he sits at table and eats so nicely."

"Besides this he is taken off on trips and has a splendid time of it. If the family are sleeping later than they should in the morning Red goes about and pulls at their bedding.

"A Few Tricks."

"He also makes a very sad face and gives a special kind of a whine when he is hungry."

"He has a sound-box in his throat and he makes deep roaring sounds, and this is why he has been given the name of howler."

"It is well when keepers and people understand animals, for so much depends on care and affection. Even an elephant wants affection in his life."

"Dear me, I'd be miserable if my keeper didn't care for me. Don't ever think, just because I'm so big, that there isn't affection and love in my elephant heart."

"Animals know so much, too. Think of the way animals can find their way home after they have been lost and how they can find their masters long, long distances away."

"And think, too, of the animals who've been taken to places in cages and yet who have been able to get back to the homes where their owners were, even though they had never gone over the ground themselves but had merely been carried along."

"But hush! Outside of my yard I hear a meadow lark. He is over in yonder field, just beyond the zoo!"

"I will not talk any more for you want to hear the meadow lark. He stayed up all winter, and though he was about when it was very cold, he did not care to sing while it was too, too bitterly cold."

"Yet he is singing now and there is snow on the ground! The sun is warm and that is what he likes though."

"But Boss Elephant must not talk any more now. He has talked enough."

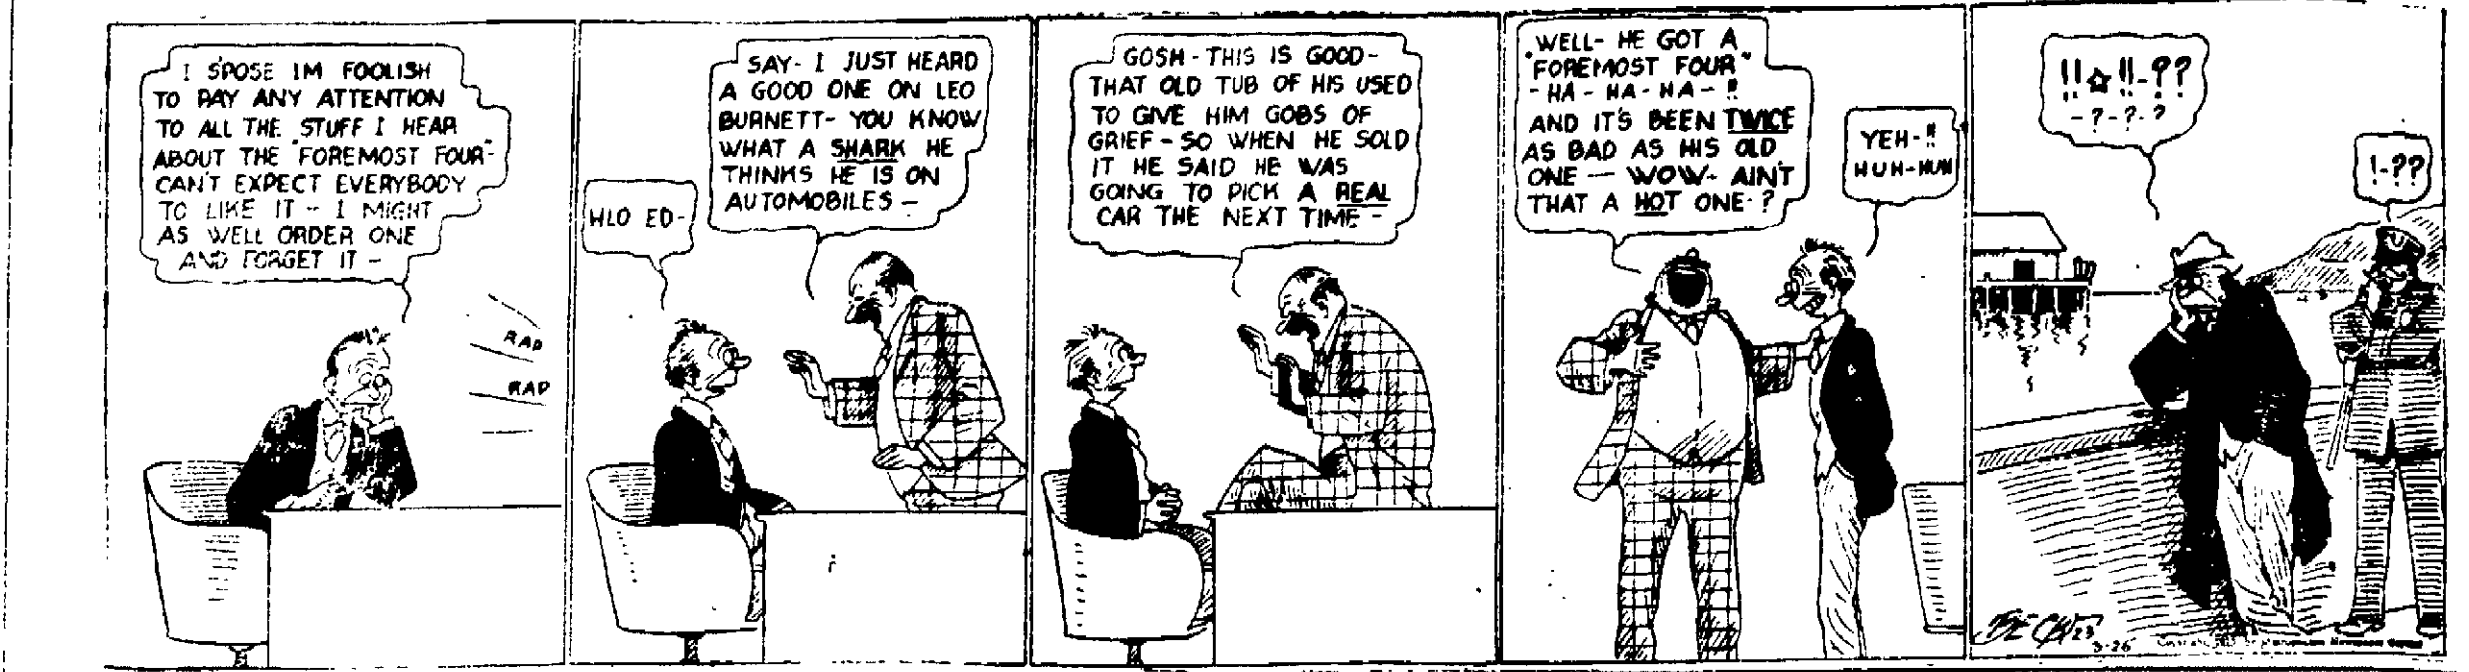

"His keeper is coming around and he will do a few tricks for the visitors, and the keeper will sit on his shoulder. You see I am speaking of myself almost as though I were speaking of another person by saying 'his shoulder' instead of 'my shoulder'."

"But I hope I've given a nice little tale and that you've enjoyed what you have heard."

"Indeed I have," said Billie Brownie. And Boss Elephant waved his trunk in farewell.

THINGS GOOD TO EAT

A nice garnish for game or a savoury at dinner is prepared by soaking large prunes in cold water until soft. Remove the stones. Sprinkle thin slices of bacon with salt and cayenne. Wrap one slice around each prune, fasten with a toothpick and fry in deep fat until the bacon is crisp and brown.

Club Ham Steak.—Take a slice of uncooked ham, one and one-half to two inches thick, remove the most of the outside fat. Put into a casserole and pile potatoes which have been pared and thinly sliced on top of the ham, covering it well. Pour over enough thin white sauce to be seen through the potatoes. Cover and cook slowly about two hours.

Spanish Rice.—To one cupful of chopped round steak add a tablespoonful of suet and brown in a hot frying pan, stirring well; add one cupful of uncooked meat, a cupful rice, a cupful of tomato, salt, pepper, cayenne, a tablespoonful each of chopped onion and green pepper which have been fried in the meat fat. Pour into a baking dish and bake until well-browned. Serve piping hot with a lettuce salad.

Baked Bacon and Cheese Sandwiches.—Put into a double boiler one pound of cheese cut in small pieces, four tablespoonfuls of milk, one egg, two tablespoonfuls of baking powder, salt, pepper and mustard to taste. Cook until the cheese melts. Spread on slices of bread or toast, put strips of bacon on top and cook in the oven until the bacon is crisp.

Chicken and Corn Escaloped.—A cupful of minced chicken taken from the leftover roast, a can of corn (or a cupful is sufficient), a spoonful of grated onion, salt and cayenne to taste, mix with a rich white sauce and put into a buttered baking dish; cover with buttered crumbs or small buttered croutons and brown in the oven.

Egg Sauce No. 2.—Beat the whites of two eggs until stiff, add one cupful of sugar, then the yolks, a pinch of salt, one-half teaspoonful of vanilla and pour into the pitcher to serve, adding one-half cupful of boiling milk just as it goes to the table.

MAKE ELECTRICAL PNEUMONIA TREATMENT APPARATUS HERE

Emile Bachelet Calls Attention to Offer to Doctors.

Editor Freeman:

Referring to the article in Friday night's Freeman, under the heading "Electricity to Cure Pneumonia," it might be of interest to your readers to know that there is manufactured here in our own city, an electromagnetic appliance which has been used in the successful treatment of pneumonia for a number of years.

The Bachelet Electro-Magnetic Wave Generators, by inducing the same condition of deep diathermy and by increasing cell activity in the lung structure, will clear the congestion and reduce the inflammation in all cases of pneumonia and entirely eliminate the much dreaded "crisis" which has always been considered inevitable.

And this treatment is so simple and so easily applied that it is not even necessary to disrobe the patient, and applications may be made without thought or danger of burning or injury to the patient.

The Bachelet Medical Appliance Company has a standing offer to all physicians of the free use of one of their instruments in the treatment of any case of pneumonia.

Uster Park W. C. T. U.

The W. C. T. U. will hold an all day meeting on Wednesday, March 28, at the home of Mrs. Cora Shultis, No. 34 Elmendorf street, this city. Lunch will be served at noon, and the regular monthly meeting will open at 2 o'clock.

Here stand the proud buildings of great financial institutions, in New York's Golden Acre.

Each square foot of land sustains a fabulous valuation and must yield a commensurate return.

There are no great financial institutions located on some streets scarce a stone's throw distant from this favored spot—streets equally blessed with material advantages, but obscure.

Ah! There's the rub—obscure!

And yet these great financial institutions, paying tremendous sums for the privilege of their place in the sun, maintain that they "do not advertise."

What is "advertising"?

FARMERS MAKE INCREASED USE OF FARM LOAN SYSTEM

Application by farmers for loans under the federal farm loan system are coming rapidly and there is a heavy demand for spring appraisals preparatory to further loans, according to M. J. Murphy, president of the New York and Pennsylvania joint stock land bank.

Applications to the amount of $4,040,000 have been received and loans amounting to $1,580,000 have been made to farmers. There is also in the process of appraisal $1,100,000. The joint stock land bank, under its charter, is allowed to loan money to farmers only.

SATURDAY IN THE HEXATHLON

The final in the hexathlon will probably be announced tomorrow. The amount of work that the contestants gives the "Y" officials is enormous, and the stack of papers to be gone over gives an aspect of some labor to even get the final out as soon as was promised. The result in two of Saturday's events that will count for the final tally follow.
